AIN' IT NI-C.E!

Written by R. P. WESTON
and BERT LEE

Moderato

Composed by
R. HARRIS-WESTON

Sung by DAISY DORMER

Tune
Ukulele

A D F# B

1. Isn't love wonder-ful? girls, oh, girls, When a boy says to you,
2. Ten o'clock! what a shock! oh, it's late! Twen-ty past! home at last!
3. Soon the bells, wed-ding bells, ring, ding, dong! Man and wife tied for life

"What nice curis! Let us take a ram-ble where the at your gate. He stands till e-le-ven, or pergood and strong. When the par-son whis-pers "Don't for-

"grass grows high!" Then Cu-pid fires his ar-row and you soft-ly sigh.
haps ten past, Moth-er does-not mind, she thinks you've clicked at last.
get that we Have our christ-nings ev-ry Sun-day twelve till three.
CHORUS

Ain't it nice when he offers you a poppy? Ain't it nice when he Ain't it nice when you're squeezing in the doorway, Ain't it nice though it's Ain't it nice when the men all rush to kiss you, Ain't it nice when ma

D Db D A7 D A7 D7 Em

looks at you so sloppy. Ain't it nice when you sit up on a style And he cold-er far than Nor-way? Ain't it nice when he's never kissed be-fore, And he cries and says she'll miss you. Ain't it nice that old wed-ding toast that runs 'May says "I love you! please don't smile!" Ain't it nice when a says "Miss do I blow or draw?" Ain't it nice when ma all your cares be lit-tle ones! Ain't it nice when they

B7 Em A7

Bm D7# Em6 D Em7 Eb(5b) A7 D D6 D A7

F. & D. Ltd. 22954
bee that's after honey, Tumbles down your back, and though you're most precise, When he asks him in to supper, And you think he's used to champagne served on ice, You feel all go home and leave you, And you're thinking 'Is this earth or paradise?' When he puts his thumb and finger, Down your back to catch the stinger, And you all your chances slipping, And the table cloth you're gripping Till he whispers 'You're my own, dear. We don't need a chap-er-one, dear, And at feel him kind of linger Ain'it nice? Ain'it nice? says, I like your dripping Ain'it nice? Ain'it nice? last we're all alone, dear!' Ain'it nice? Ain'it nice?