What Did She Know About Railways?

Written by
C. G. COTES

Composed by BENNETT SCOTT

Moderato

Allegro

1. A reg'lar farmer's daughter thought she'd
2. When they steamed into Euston, she said, like to come to town, But what did she know a-bout rail-ways? She Stop at Aunt-y Janes, But what did she know a-bout rail-ways? To ©1897 Herman Darewski Music Pub. Co.

jump'd up-on the en-gine but the stok-er push'd her down; But what did she know a-bout make her un-der-stand the por-ters took no end of pains; But what did she know a-bout rail-ways? The guard came ap and spoke to her, as she stood sob-bing there, Asked rail-ways? When she got to the bar-ri-er, an ar-gu-ment a-rose, The her if she'd a tick-et, but she an-swer'd with a stare; Said he "You can't go up to town un-mansaid"I must punch your ticket,"spoke sharp, I suppose; Said she "Thou punch my ticket and I'll

-til you've paid your fare." But what did she know a-bout rail-ways? punch thee on thy nose." But what did she know a-bout rail-ways?
CHORUS

She arrived at Euston by the midnight train, But when she got to the wicket, there some-one want-ed to punch her tick-et, The guards and por-ters came round her by the score, And she told them all she'd nev-er had a tick-et punch'd be-fore! tick-et punch'd be-fore!

The porters all got on to her and asked her then and there,
"What do you know about railways?"
Then she pitched into all the lot and soon their faces were Covered all over with railways.
Some police then came upon the scene and seized her "rolling stock",
Next morning twelve black-eyed porters stood by – she was in the dock,
And when the beak said, "fourteen days," it gave her such a shock,
She nearly fell through her railways.

CHORUS: She arrived at Euston &c.